What is research at Augustana?

Research at Augustana could be defined a variety of ways depending on the opportunities you have within a major or field of work or study. Thus, research is defined broadly, emphasizing the many talents and pedagogies of Augustana faculty and students. Examples might include:

- conducting laboratory research with peers;
- creating a portfolio of artwork;
- composing a work of music;
- developing a market analysis as part of an internship in the Quad Cities;
- conducting classroom research as part of the student teaching experience.

Students should work with their academic advisor or research supervisor to determine if their experience should be tracked as research.   (Adapted from Augustana Senior Inquiry Vision, Outcomes and Guidelines: 9-26-05)
